Daddy I sure do miss you. I wish I could have one more basketball ball game or long talks that you would give us girls I would give anything to work on a car with you or go to the race track. I had a dream about you I wish it didn't end that I could stay in that moment a little longer just so I could be close to you again

I remember the time we went to find grandma's grave all the way in Kentucky. We were searching around ever holler, mountain looking for her name. You had on bright orange shorts and red and white tube socks lol lord knows you never matched daddy. Well you slid and tumbled down the mountain I couldn't help but laugh it's just a time I'll never forget with you. A more recent memory was not even two weeks before your passing I was in the emergency room with you when they told you, you had broke your foot and being the silly guy you are the first thing you said was "aww man does this mean I can't play kickball now" and the nurse laughed although I think she took you serious. I'll forever recall on these memories papa you're my hero!! ? Love always your little girl Nena pooh (amanda)
