I know you were an angel here on earth and now you are an angel in heaven. I learned so much from you. Your love that exuded from your soul was so comforting to be around. Quite a few years back, I managed to convince you to walk around the lake with me up north. It was during the winter, so we bundled up good and treached along the two mile walk. We were laughing and having a great time when all of a sudden I fell, slipping on the ice and could barely get up and we laughed hard. We walked a short distance more having so much fun together. Then to our surprise, we both slipped and fell together. We laughed so hard we could barely contain ourselves. It was one of those laughs that is deep down in the belly. I love you Angela and I am so sad to say goodbye for now. I cant wait to see you again. I know you loved God with all your heart. You are truly a beautiful child of God!Love,Aunt Brenda
