I was shocked and stunned to hear of her passing as I no longer live in Michigan so it took that sad news a long time to get to me. What a wonderful person she was and am thankful to have known her at all! Carrie had a heart as big as a mountain and was always willing to lend a hand if you needed it. She had a quote that she truly lived from Einstein on her refrigerator that I had never seen before but never forgot: "What is right is not always popular and what is popular is not always right." Her insights and sense of what was the right was incredibly well balanced, I am lucky to have known her and Bill all those years. She left us much too soon as you could never get enough of her laughter, good nature and common sense that she so humbly and freely shared with all. Truly a genuinely good person who will always have a place in my heart and the hearts of those people who came through her life. You were truly touched by an Angel to have known her at all. I'd just like to take a moment to express what I think everyone here must know. Carrie was a very kind person. She was a very open person. I don't think I ever saw her on a day she did not smile. Granted, we all smile, here and there, but she smiled in a way that could change your entire day. It was powerful, infectious, full of life. It is beyond words how this unexpected loss has impacted me. I only knew Carrie for a very short time. I just saw her recently. I considered her a friend, most certainly because she embodied the zest for life that I strive for, and hope to carry on in her absence. Namaste, and safe travels, my friend, you are an inspiration for me and for all of us on this path of life we all walk with so much uncertainty. I hope to smile like you did, and do, for as long as I am. Justin Thorne PS We will have to play Mario somewhere else. I'll save the date.

She was the best person, Kind, Funny, Loving. I'm going to miss you so much. Although we both had busy lives. I loved talking to you, you always helped keep me on moral ground when the lines were blurred because you knew me so well. I'll miss your little jokes and jabs. I know Carr you're in a better place, however knowing doesn't lessen the pain. Yes, you and I both know God only takes the best and he has taken you because he has more work for you to do. I hope the Angels know what they have. Love you Carr and miss, miss, miss you.

Carrie and family, Our hearts are broken here at the Roukas-Wilson home....there are no words to express our gratitude for the love and kindness Carrie shared with our special son, Richard. We loved every moment Carrie shared with us, including cooking for this family, even though we should have been able to fend for ourselves. She was beautiful and treated us with such warmth and grace. Pat, Richard, Frankie and Bill
