I always remember my sister with a smile on her face and always happy. That was reinforced today when the mail lady told me how sorry she was. She told me she always had a smile on her face and always something nice to say. She told me anyone else would complain about leaf raking. But not her for even being in pain she kept on raking leaves. I will miss the talks that we had, the laughter and the camping trips. You were not only my little sister but my best friend. Fly with the angel's party until we meet again. Love always Your older sister and best friend. Beth
