Uncle John was always so easy to be around. Such a kind and decent man. He had a great sense of humor and made me laugh. We also shared a passion for the Detroit Lion's and would always vent at family gatherings. Whenever I see an episode of Everyone Love Raymond, he reminds me of Ray's brother "Robert", and that makes me smile. I will cherish the memories of being together at family gatherings like 4th of July and Christmas, but most importantly just the wonderful man he was. Guys like him don't come around often. He's going to be missed and never forgotten.

Uncle John was fun, silly and kind. Growing up I thought he was also cool! He had a an American eagle tattoo that I thought was awesome. It's actually still my favorite tattoo. I always looked forward to his 4th of July party where he'd ask, "why aren't you eating anything?" After we were stuffed. At night he and my dad would light off fireworks while my aunt Pat would listen to the police scanner making sure they wouldn't get caught.

We were so fortunate to have such a sweet, kind uncle. Uncle John always had interest in whatever was going on in the lives of others and always had such joy and sunshine in his voice. On our recent phone calls, he always beat me in saying, "I love you." We miss you already! The Roman family
